

Asymmetric quantum cloning

Denis Rochette

Université Paul Sabatier, Toulouse, France

The design of perfect quantum cloning maps, able to copy any quantum state, is known to be impossible under the name of "no-cloning theorem". But it is possible to obtain copies of quantum states that are not perfect. The quality of the copies can then be measured as the distance between the input and the different copies.